14. Political convictions: He is a nationalistic type of Communist; he is pro-Russia but is firm more in the English than Communist and has almost no anti-semitic views. He is somewhat anti-semitic, rather anti-Jewish as far as Source knows Subject is not known to be involved with other women.
15. Penal record: None
16. Brief history of employment: He joined the UB in 1954. He was originally a technical vice-director of a large chemical plant in Warsaw in the suburb of Praga. In 1954, on joining the UB, he was assigned to the Department I Intelligence Course and in 1955 became an operations officer in the sub-section (German-Austrian) of Section 6, Department I, headed by Gieseler KROUGER (C 7). (These sub-sections were reorganized and refitted December 1956.) Subject remained in that sub-section until his departure for Austria. He was dispatched to Vienna by Source as a Section Case Officer for matters involving scientific and technical operations. In addition, his assignment to Vienna was meant to be a fulfillment of ROMAN's mission who was quite busy with matters concerned with the IAK in Vienna. Subject and ROMAN are colleagues, neither superior to the other in status.
17. Current job title and duties: Subject is an employee of the Commercial Section of the Polish Embassy in Vienna.
18. Salary and allowances: In Warsaw he receives a salary of approximately 3,700 Zlotys. In Vienna, he gets about $400 a month and quarters. In addition he gets a special operational allowance which instead of 500 ZLOTY is another UB Staff Officer in Vienna, does not receive.
19. Professional travel: While in Section 6, Department I, Subject used to take part in the Poman and Lodzki trips. Prior to his assignment in Vienna, he had undertaken several operational trips to Austria and in 1958 traveled to Hannover in his true name.
20. Personal travel: None
21. Professional standing and reputation: He is very capable as an engineer and is good as an operations officer. He is imaginative; will read; he speaks well; is ingenuitous and works extremely hard. Source describes him as an exemplary employee.
22. Vulnerability and operational possibilities: On occasion he is wont to drink a little too much, otherwise he is discreet and there has never been any known incident involving Subject with any females.
23. Comments: Source recommends that a careful check and review be made of Subject's activity. Subject has confidence in Source. Subject later during 1944 (1943-1944) because he is an anti-Semite to begin with, and ROMAN's known laziness, sloppiness and careerism has not endeared him to many people. Among the agent cases handled by Subject are the following: Pseudonyms, IDENTITY and CEMAJ, both on Source's list of agents; were both recruited by Subject in West Berlin. He also recruited Hieronim GRUBSKI ( IV ) and currently is a Case Officer for Roman STACH ( II ). He also handled the drug addict, firm WOLLMAN; another agent with the cryptonyms "TELEWIZOR"; and "ELECTRON." Both of these latter agents are also on Source's agent list.
